SEC. COOK SPEAKS ON ENGLISH TRIP

Shorthorn Breeders at Banquet Meeting Here Association Secretary.

Shorthorn cattle for dairying predominates in England, according to Roy Cook, Independence, Iowa, secretary of the American Shorthorn society, at the livestock breeders' meeting held in the Janeville Hotel Monday evening.

Mr. Cook recently returned from England, where he inspected the noted herds of the red, whites and roans of the island countries and attended several agricultural exhibitions.

"The ability to have cattle that will milk well and show best qualities was defended by Secretary Cook relating of the production records made on British cows having good udders."

"English cattle are not superior to those produced in the United States," he stated. "The English breeder has sold his top animals for high prices, and his estimation American breeders have improved upon this foundation imported stock and that brought over in late years."

"The English breeder is non-cooperative and refuses to admit that any herd outside of his own, has much merit. Their correct type on Shorthorns compares with the American type, which is regulated largely by which sections the cattle are located. In one section whole colored animals are favored, while in another mixed colors have been bred and developed."

"I am very sure that you in Rock county could compete successfully in the show ring with many of the leading British breeders."

During the meeting a sale committee composed of Robert Lamb, Robert Traynor and Lewis C. French was named. Around 40 head from the Walter Little estate will be sold Oct. 24 or 25 and the Rock County Shorthorn Cow Testing association will sell about the same number the day before, or the day after the Little sale, according to the decision of the sale committee.

It was announced that Frank Brown would judge the Milking Shorthorn classes at the coming international.

The address by Secretary Cook was enjoyed by the breeders in that he told of famous English sires, the Shorthorns, their type and production abilities and much of the Rock county stock traces to these cattle families.

Most of the feeder cattle come from Ireland and are shipped to England to be fed for the beef market.

In the milking trials at the Royal show more than 100 cattle of all breeds were entered. A Holstein won in total milk produced, and the Shorthorns in the amount of butterfat. The production records began to compare with the marks made in Canada or the United States.

WINNETKA POLICE GET $175 MONTHLY AND WORK 8 HOURS

Janeville policeman have become somewhat envious of the police department of Winnetka, Ill., as a result of information given out this week by W. H. Burdick, a member of the Winnetka police department, who is a visitor in the city.

Regular patrolmen there work eight hours a day, receive $175 a month, have half the cost of their uniforms paid for by the city and get 30 days off, although they annually are given two weeks' vacation with pay. Mr. Burdick said. In a city of 10,000, there are 13 men on the department including the chief and clerks. The fire department has a private telephone box system in use.

Conditions are considerably different in Janeville, a city of close to 10,000, with 14 policemen, including the chief, and no private phone system. Here the regular patrolmen get $125 a month, work 11 hours a day, get every sixth day off and have two weeks' vacation with pay. Each man pays the full cost of his uniform.

"We have two motorcycle men, who receive $185 a month," said patrolman Burdick. "Now motorcycle men are purchased every year and they have to test up to 90 miles an hour before they are accepted. In a recent test on the Dundee road, one machine made 97 miles an hour. Speeders are not picked up unless they hit more than 22 or 23 miles in the business section. Out of the business district they are allowed to run 30 miles an hour."

Mr. Burdick is a guest of his brother-in-law, Charles Krause, on a farm north of the city, and spent part of Monday in a visit to the local police station.

He says Winnetka has always been a dry city and there are few arrests made there for liquor violations. The police make no raids at all. There are those who make their money but that's about all, he said. Winnetka is under the municipal form of government, its manager having recently been elected the Janeville post.

I would get these quickly, easily and cheaply by advertising for them with Janesville Gazette Want Ads.

I might have some books that I wanted to sell. I would sell them through Janesville Gazette Want Ads to other book collectors who know enough about hunting bargains to look over the Want Ads in Janesville Gazette.

When Wisconsin was enacting the laws under which its Trust Companies were organized, some of the lawmakers thought that if the regular lock on a door was a good thing, an extra lock wouldn't do any harm.

So, the Rock County Savings & Trust Co. may not loan out a dollar of your savings without getting a note signed by the borrower, as all banks do. AND IN ADDITION, getting some piece of actual property, worth more than the amount borrowed, put up as additional security. This is what we mean by the DOUBLE security, behind Trust Company deposits. And it is one of the reasons why not a cent of savings has EVER been lost in a Wisconsin Trust company.

Courts are established, not to determine the popularity of a cause, but to adjudicate and enforce rights. No litigant should be required to submit his case to the hazard and expense of a political campaign. No judge should be required to seek or receive political rewards. The courts of Massachusetts are known and honored where-ever men love justice. Let their glory suffer no diminution at our hands. The electorate and judiciary cannot combine. A hearing means a hearing. When the trial of causes goes outside the courtroom, Anglo-Saxon constitutional government ends.

The people cannot look to legislation generally for success. Industry, thrift, character, are not conferred by act or resolve. Government cannot relieve from toll. It can provide no substitute for the rewards on service. It can, of course, care for the defective and recognize distinguished merit. The normal means care for themselves.
Self-government means self-support.

Diversification of Farming.

Janesville, Rock county and Southern Wisconsin are having a demonstration at the Janesville Fair this week, of the value of diversified farming. While wheat constitutes less than ten percent of the total value of farm production in the United States, there are some sections in which this constitutes the money crop and for which reason we have all the disturbance of the economic situation over the wheat market. It makes no difference what crop it may be that dominates, any farm community, large or small, depending on that one crop, will from time to time find itself in the same position that the wheat farmer finds today.

Once Rock county was the largest wheat growing county in the United States. The largest part of its business, the largest part of capital, in fact, was invested in elevators or in the production, buying and shipping of wheat. Early copies of the Gazette tell the story clearly. Wheat was the thing. Jackman & Smith with a farm close to the city bought land, broke it up, paid for the land, oxen, plows and all equipment and had a profit of some $1500 on 240 acres the first year from the seed. The average price was fifty cents and calico was selling from 25 to 50 cents a yard. Then came a time when higher priced land, higher cost of production, reduced yields, ravages of chinch bugs and Hessian flies, made a crop that could not compete with the heavily broken prairies of Minnesota and Nebraska.

The Rock county farmer went into the cattle business and also began to raise horses. His fields no longer produced wheat alone but he had more meadow, more pasture and many different kinds of cereals and other field products. The very top of diversification has been approximated in the last few years with the culling out of scrub sites and the establishment of pure bred herds.

Other counties in other sections, whole states, in fact, have done the same. The one crop has gone out of fashion as it were. Once a section of New York state raised buckwheat as the money crop. About every third year the early frost killed it and there was no money. The cotton planter has been a slave to the promissory note at the bank for half a century. He is getting out of that habit. He is raising less cotton and more general products. Fifteen years ago there were not as many silos in the whole state of Georgia as there are on Route 20 in Rock county, west of Janesville. Now there are many hundreds. Pigs and peanuts, watermelons and chickens have made money for negro tenant as well as white land owners. If every Wisconsin farmer had a hundred laying hens, we would have a poultry product more valuable than the silver mined in Colorado each year.

Less wheat on high priced land and greater diversification with live stock as the largest asset of the farm will solve the wheat farmers' troubles long before any artificial valorization plan can get into action.

We have lots of law but we still maintain a police force.

Calvin Coolidge and Prohibition.

The Gazette has been in receipt of many inquiries in the last few days, as to the position of Calvin Coolidge on the question of prohibition, which includes the 18th amendment and the Volstead act. He has, since coming into the office of vice president, made no public utterance on the subject. As governor he vetoed the bill purporting to authorize the manufacture of beer containing 2.75 per cent of alcohol, pointing out that prohibition is the law of the land. This stand was consistent with his affirmation of law and order and is summed up in the following passage from his address in acceptance of the nomination as Vice-President, when he said:

"The observance of the law is the greatest evoyent of public life. Men speak of natural rights, but I challenge anyone to show where in nature any rights ever existed or were recognized, until there was established for their protection and protection a duly promulgated body of corresponding laws. The march of civilization has been ever under the protecting aegis of the law. It is the strong defence of the weak, the ever present refuge of innocence, a mighty fortress of the righteous. One with the law is a majority. While the law is observed the progress of

NEW BRITISH TRADE PLAN

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington.—American foreign traders will have to increase their enterprise and ingenuity if they are going to hold their dominant position in world markets against the new drive which is to be expected from Great Britain. The American Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce has been accomplishing much toward expanding the overseas trade of the manufacturers of the United States, but news now comes from London which promises to produce a fresh source of competition.

Great Britain for five hundred years has been one of the greatest of the trading nations. Her people live chiefly by trade. They have done well in the past but the quickened pace of modern times has produced new circumstances in which it has been discovered that the British Empire must knit more closely her scattered resources if she is going to compete successfully with the Americans and with continental Europe.

The new plan is expected to achieve a gain which will insure a continued lively trade for the island Empire. Great Britain's colonies, dependencies and dominions spread over the globe.
The sun never sets on the British flag. With the passage of time and the exigencies of politics some of these mighty possessions have drifted away from the mother country. Advice from England now says that an earnest effort is to be made to bring them back.

On June 18th, the late date for which figures have been compiled, unemployment in Great Britain amounted to approximately one and a quarter million persons. While this was a decrease of some sixteen per cent compared with a year ago, it still indicated an unhealthy surplus of man power over opportunity for gainful pursuits.

Two years ago, when President Harding regarded the unemployment situation in the United States as sufficiently grave to necessitate the calling of a conference, the unemployment here was not believed to be much over 3,000,000. Great Britain has little more than a third as many people as the United States, if Ireland is excluded, as it must be now that the Emerald Isle is a separate state. This means that Great Britain now has an army of unemployed greater than the one which existed in the United States at the time of the president's conference.

The bad part about the British unemployment is that it is of long standing. These people have been out of work ever since the post-war justice business depression. There has been a slow absorption of labor, but it has not been nearly so rapid as in the United States, where, now the entire surplus which existed two years ago is employed and a demand exists for still more men.

This is the purely British side of the picture and it is one which has caused much perplexity to the Londoners of British thought and political action. The situation has produced a tremendous financial drain on the national exchequer for it has been necessary to pay unemployment doles to the workless. Millions of pounds a month are paid out by the government to the men whom there are no jobs. When Stanley Baldwin now prime minister of Great Britain and then chancellor of the exchequer, was in Washington last January to negotiate the funding of the British war debt to the United States, he showed figures which made it clear that England's ability to pay was definitely limited by the extent of the unemployment. A large proportion of British taxes must be diverted to public works or to the discharge of debts, as in the United States, but to support of idle workers.

The other side of the picture is this. Great Britain has vast dominions, conquered either from savage or backward peoples or from the wilderness, by British enterprise and prowess.
Just as the West was conquered by the American pioneers. The Dominion of Canada, for instance, is peopled by only a few more inhabitants than New York city and its environs. This great expanse of fruitful territory cries for people to develop it. The same is true of Australia in even greater degree. At that continent, about the size of the United States, lie vast regions where only the foot of the explorer has been set and there are fastnesses where no man but the bushman has ventured. New Zealand and Tasmania and South Africa also present vast tracts of unoccupied land which invite development by the adventurous.

A plan now is being matured at London whereby the two problems may be solved: first, the problems of congestion of people and unemployment in the British Isles, and second, the problem of getting people to develop the resources of the rich dominions and colonies. It is proposed that there shall be an imperial conference at London to be attended by representatives of the dominions, of capitalists, of the labor unions and of others interested, including, of course, the British government. Schemes will be discussed for getting the surplus British population to the unsettled and undeveloped lands of the dominions.

It is not easy to get people to leave their accustomed dwelling places even though those places be only hovels in city slums and even though life be extraordinarily hard because of lack of work. But it is possible that the British government, through this imperial conference, will work out a scheme which will, in effect, force the people out to the dominions as a course, which, in the long run, will be best for everyone's concerned.

This could be done by a combination of actions: First, through cooperation of the dominion government, land could be provided in these outlying possessions either free on a homestead basis similar to that which caused the American west to be settled, or at a low price with long time payments, second, through government aid in transportation, third, through the use of the unemployment doles. The last measure would force the people to do something to avoid downward starvation while the first two provisions would provide an avenue to better times.

It may be that the plan will not work, but present indications are that it must, because of the intolerable industrial situation which obtains in the congested English cities. It means that the American people must increase their efficiency, eliminate waste, and buckle down to harder work.

civilization will continue. When such observance ceases, chaos and the ancient night of despotism will come again. Liberty goes unsupported or relies in its entirety on the maintenance of order and the execution of the law."

You cannot go very far wrong with a president who believes that the destinies of America are settled around the hearthstone.

If you were to attempt to print a newspaper in Italy you would have about the same chance as in Russia. No dictatorial government wants a free untrammelled press. Governor Blaine wants a press that runs along with him. It would neither have friends nor power. He has both Soviet and Fascist ideas.

Magnus Johnson must feel as though he has a deadly rival when he sees pictures of Cal. Coolidge pitching hay.

The Gazette has started a new department called "The Trouble Shooter." This has no reference to the carrying of fire arms or using revolvers in domestic differences.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE JOURNEY UP THE HILL.
She was fond of him, and he Fond of her as he could be;
But her parents had a plan Built around a wealthier man.
One who had his fortune won, Him they wanted for a son.
"I would be better," so they said,
"If the older man she'd wed."

They would have her home complete, Built in a stylish street, Richly furnished and attired, Nothing left to be desired;
Not a dream of days to come When they'd worked and saved for some Little treasure. All of this They would have their daughter miss.

They would keep from her the thrill Of the journey up the hill,
Of the small beginning day Knew upon her wedding day.
They would never let her know What a joy it is to grow And how sweet it is to climb Hand in hand, the wall of Time.

Wiser, better, for the maid To look forward, unafraid, To the struggle to acquire Little joys she may desire, Than to find her home complete With no dreams of conquest sweet, More of happiness she'll take From the home she dares to make.

Let her start as you began,
Let her know the joys you knew;
Let her know the joys you knew;
As the home you built grew.
Do not rob her life of these Glad and precious memories, And the joy of the sweetest thrill Is the journey up the hill.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

OUR NUTRITIVE REQUIREMENTS.
The potatoes and eat the skins with the potatoes. Housewives in the habit of throwing away the potato water are throwing away money, food, and health. It should be used for making soup or in other ways.
The same amount of protein (20 grams or two-thirds of an ounce) proved sufficient for men on a diet of rye bread, margarine, prunes, sugar and starch. Hindheide asserts that the protein of potatoes, bread, meat and milk has the same nutritive value.
He says that experiments with the fourth diet mentioned—bread, potatoes, cabbage, fish and fruit—proved that potatoes, bread, meat and milk can replace it.
These are a few of the impressive conclusions reached by this great authority and when Hindheide announces such conclusions they usually stand.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
"Flourishing the Hamhock." Is it just to feed the stomach of the body to feed it entirely on milk or other food from the bottle instead of the breast? (Mrs. M. E. J.) Answer.—If babies were as easy to raise as turkeys or goldfish it wouldn't matter much when you deny the babbling his bright light you deny his chance of surviving the first year.
Nothing the mother can do will compensate with breast milk for lacking health and life to the baby.

Please give some information and advice about first aid for minor emergency cases. We are starting for a six week camping trip and would like to be prepared. (Mrs. M. E. J.) ing envelope bearing your name and address I will mail you instructions for preparing a handy emergency kit and suggestions for first aid.

—Internationally Dr. H.

I drink four or five pints of buttermilk daily, and have been told "W. E. L." Answer.—A pint a day is enough.
I use a gallon of butter-milk daily.

I use a soap in place of toothpaste, and it keeps my teeth. Is this injury? (H. W. L.) Answer.—Toothpaste is principally used to clean the teeth and to remove the film of food from the teeth.

Have you a formula to stop a young man 25 years of age from drinking to excess? (Miss K. A.) Answer.—No remedy or formula will stop an inebriated drunkard. The drinker earnestly desires to overcome his habit, and co-operates with his physician, a court, or a treatment in hospital or at home. If a treatment may be secured, the craving for alcohol is removed. The method given to the profession of Lambert about 15 years ago has cured some devoted drunkards.

Q.—What is the meaning of the term dog days? J. E. K.
A.—Dog days comprise the hot season of the summer, beginning of July and August; so called because of the fact that the rising of the star, Sirius, the brightest star in the constellation of the dog, is coincident with the rising of the heat of summer, and the midsummer which then prevailed, hence the popular supposition that dogs are specially liable to be mad at this season.
It was by more accident that the rising of the star coincided with the hottest season of the year. In the tropics and countries of the old astronomers the rising depends on the latitude of the place, and is later and later every year in all latitudes, owing to precession. In time the star may rise in the middle of winter. Obviously, there is variation in the date of the dog days, although they are usually counted from July 3 to Aug.
11, that is, 20 days before and 20 days after the summer solstice. The dog star and the sun are in the given by Roger Lang as the beginning of dog days in about 73 A. D.

Q.—Who discovered that finger prints had individuality? F. R. D.
A.—The taking of finger prints is known to have been practiced in the East for many years. The first systematic use of fingerprints was made by the Englishman, Francis Galton, in 1892. The permanent character of thumb prints was first put forward scientifically in 1823 by J. E. Pur-kinje, a Dutch physiologist, who read a paper before the University of Breslau advocating a system of classification. His work was taken up by Edmond, an English draftsman, who made a number of impressions of finger prints, and was later taken up by Sir Francis Galton and Sir William Herschel.

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR

EVERY now and then some new value of sports is brought forth from the tangled web of modern civilization's speed mania. This week's sport brings a yarn from Buenos Aires through the Associated Press. Time was when the young men of that South American city were all bent on the game of polo. They played it on Sunday, the commonest day, and during the week on the snortless that came along. The polo field was a small one, and the players, second cousins of the young lizards, attired themselves stiffly in black with high polo collars and patent leather shoes. The girls, looking for suitors, drove the arenas in coaches and exchanged flirtatious smiles and shy glances with the "polo players."

THE STORY goes on: "Today in Buenos Aires there is hardly a vacant lot on Saturday, Sunday or holiday that is not the scene of a football game. Tennis matches are in progress on hundreds of courts; golf balls soar over the fairways of eight different courses; swift racing sculls cleave the waters of the River Lujan, propelled by sunburned arms; on running tracks young men in spiked shoes seek to make records in the hundred meter dash, the hurdles and like events; swimming, basketball and boxing have numerous devotees (it's a fair guess); while young men of wealth indulge in polo and crack yacht races. The formal Sunday afternoon black of a generation ago has been succeeded by light tweeds, homespuns, flannels and sport clothes. The young men have less time to flirt."

"WHILE THE YOUNG women have not entirely abandoned the old Spanish custom of 'beauty parading' on the streets, it may be seen on the Calle Florida, they have also taken to outdoor sports in increasing numbers. Infected first by golf, tennis and swimming, they have begun to indulge in polo meets, stimulated doubtless by the example of their American, British and French sisters. They have formed tennis and polo clubs and now it is proposed to found the Argentine Feminine Athletic federation." P. S.—and then these are the folks in the United States who cannot see the advantage of playgrounds.

All baseball parks in the country will be closed next Friday, funeral day of the late President Harding.

Running races at Aurora will be suspended all of Friday.

Golfers of nation asked to quit links Wednesday, day of memorial services at Washington.

Bill Tilden and Vincent Richards, paired for the past two years in national tennis doubles, have had a falling out.

Races Open Wednesday; Paddock to Speed Starts

FOUR BIG EVENTS FOR OPENING DAY WITH LARGE FIELD

With a field of 54 entries for the four events of the mainline, the 10th harness racing season of the region of the North at the Janesville fair will open Wednesday. Races will start at 2 p. m. They will be called at 1:30 p. m.

Through a slight rain fell Tuesday morning and made the track somewhat heavy, a warm sun the balance of the day will put the ovals in fast shape for Wednesday's opening.

More than 100 horses are the stalls at the fair grounds. Some of the fastest pacers and trotters to be seen in the state this season are here, ready to answer the bell and take to the wire.

Snappy Program Wednesday. Originally two events were scheduled for Tuesday, but failure to fill either a 2:05 or a 2:08 pace caused cancellation of one and the shoving of the other over to Wednesday, leaving the first day of the fair without horse competition.

This condition will make Wednesday's events the class of the week. The 2:10 trot, the fastest event of the week, with 15 entries, amply shows the cream of recent meetings in the middle west, is carded for the first day. The 2:17 pace, the 2:20 trot and 3-year old trot are the others.

Up until 11:30 a. m. Tuesday, there was still a question whether World races on Friday, the national day of mourning and prayer for the late President Warren G. Harding, if the plan of calling off the fair Friday and running the races Saturday is carried through, the fair will have to secure the country for a starter.

New Paddock in Position. Dr. Stone, Burlington, official starter this season, will have to leave Friday night for Toledo, where he will start the races there of the grand circuit on Saturday.

A paddock has been provided this year for starting horses, it was announced Tuesday by Dr. Guy C. Waite, superintendent of speed.

At the east end of the grandstand with accommodations for 40 horses. All starters will be moved up to this paddock at 1 p. m. each afternoon to speed up the starting and save the delays of past years in calling drivers and horses from the stables. It is also expected to avert possible accidents such as the one that occurred at the west gate last year and slightly injured one man.

The bringing of Dr. Stone here to start the races has met with approval. He has had years of experience on the grand circuit at Toledo, Columbus and Kalamazoo, and at the smaller meetings at Milwaukee, Aurora and Chicago.
